Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I have followed with interest the antitrust case against Microsoft. It disturbs me that the government will spend millions of dollars of taxpayer money on witch hunts. It is obvious that the government has selectively chosen Microsoft in this matter. Why not AOL? If the government is going to take action against those companies which strive to improve their product for the good of the public, then our whole economy will eventually stagnate from the lack of creativity.

I back any settlement that will stop the waste of taxpayer money.
